JUMPING STUMPS

Jumping is an essential form of exercise that promotes a dog's physical and mental well-being.

Jump training exercises help strengthen the muscles in the hind limbs, including the quadriceps, hamstrings, and calf muscles, promoting enhanced agility and coordination. When a dog jumps, it uses these muscle groups in a coordinated manner to generate the necessary force for each leap. Keep in mind that the specific muscles involved may vary depending on the type of jump (vertical, horizontal, etc).

Benefits

- Contributes to improved cardiovascular fitness, as it increases heart rate and promotes better circulation.
- Assists in maintaining a healthy weight for dogs, preventing obesity-related issues.
- Provides mental stimulation, helping to reduce boredom and behavioral problems.
